A sculptor, beginning his work, is faced with the task of changing the shape of something which stands before him in its raw elementary form. We are often given the same opportunity, but without the proper tools and skill, we are unable to realize our potential.

Usually we are given too much to work with. Using the tools and skills we have acquired, we must begin to throw out old parts which do not seem to contribute to the planned, final form.

One of the first skills which we are taught is to form steady and legible letters instead of the random scrawl of childish hands. Using this as a basis for what is to follow, our hands develop with our minds in academics.

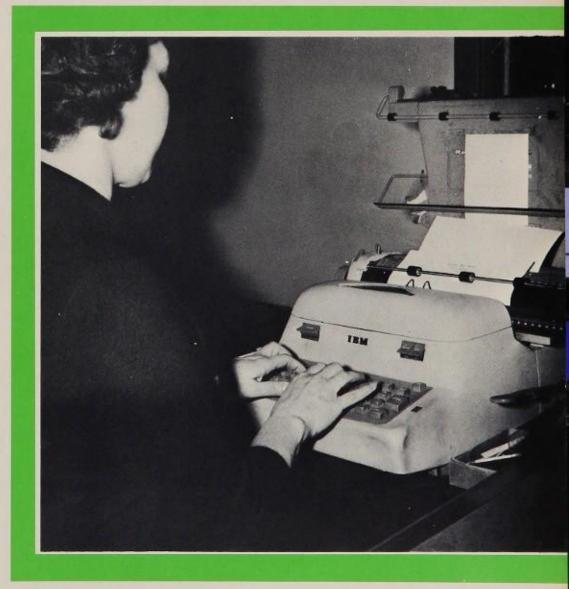

The child who has to count to seven on his fingers may become the man who can manipulate a slide rule or even program a computer to solve a complicated problem.

The same hands which once dropped everything that was given to them, learn to pour and measure chemicals precisely. Coupled with a skill which the mind has acquired through teaching and experience, these same hands can operate an intricate jigsaw or can hit typewriter keys with speed and accuracy.

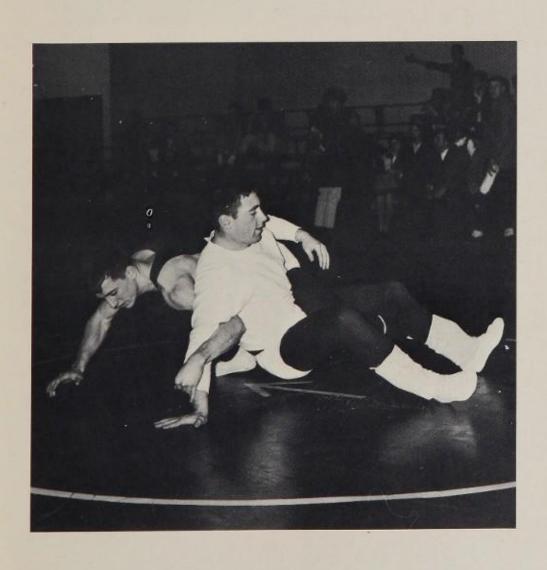

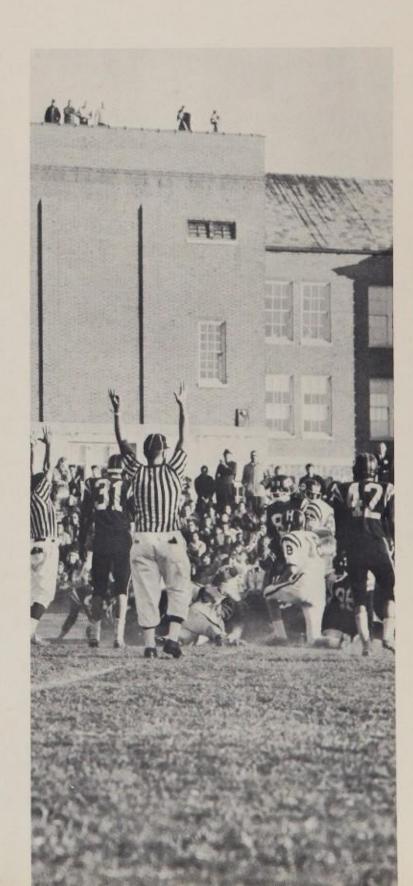

Athletic activities always require cooperative effort. The need for teamwork among the players is essential in order to utilize each member's strong points to the fullest and to minimize his weaknesses. The football passer is effective only when he receives the blocking protection of his linemen and the support of his receivers. In basketball, passing and playmaking are the prime ingredients for the success of the team.

Each sport also teaches and requires skill. The hands that once swung a bat wildly without result have been taught to swing and hit with precision and power. Each swing depends on what skill has been gained from those before and each in turn will add to the skill to be used next time.

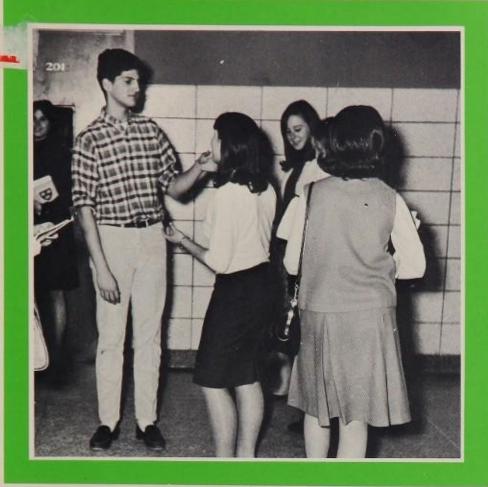

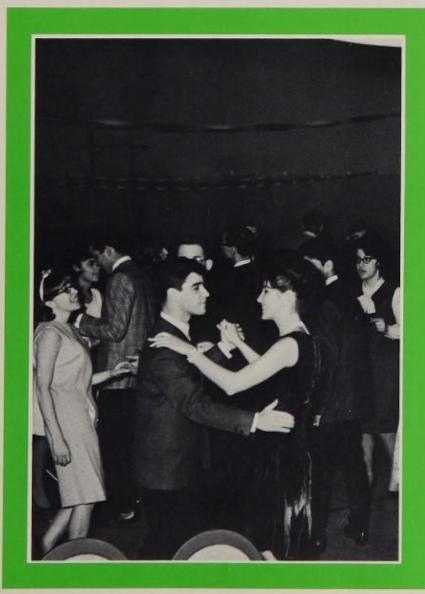

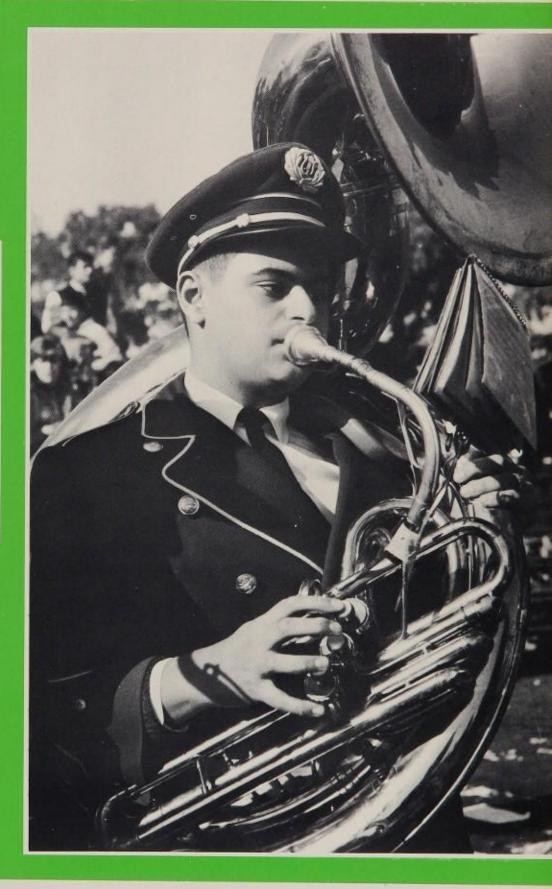

To the discerning student, a myraid of extracurricular activities are available for the testing of a future career, the use and development of a special skill, or just the humoring of a whim.

A sense of responsibility must be developed if the activities are to function properly, and if the experience is to be of service in the future. In the hands of every member of any representative government rests the responsibility of making meaningful decisions. The practice and experience for making the important decisions to come can be gained, not only in a governing organization, but also in any activity requiring leadership or decision-making. Which routine to do at half-time can be equally as demanding a problem as whether to use ham or bologna sandwiches for the dance Saturday night.

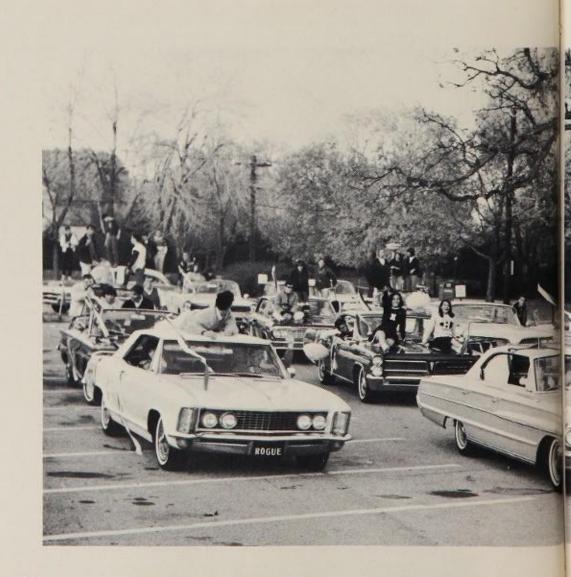

Most students join activities because they enjoy them. By giving freely of their time and energy to worthwhile pursuits, they are becoming the kind of citizens who will be assets to any community.

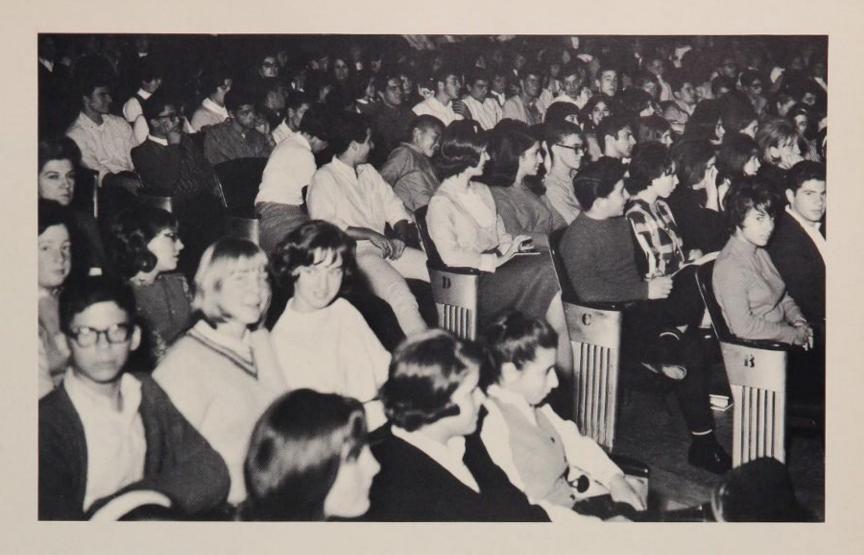

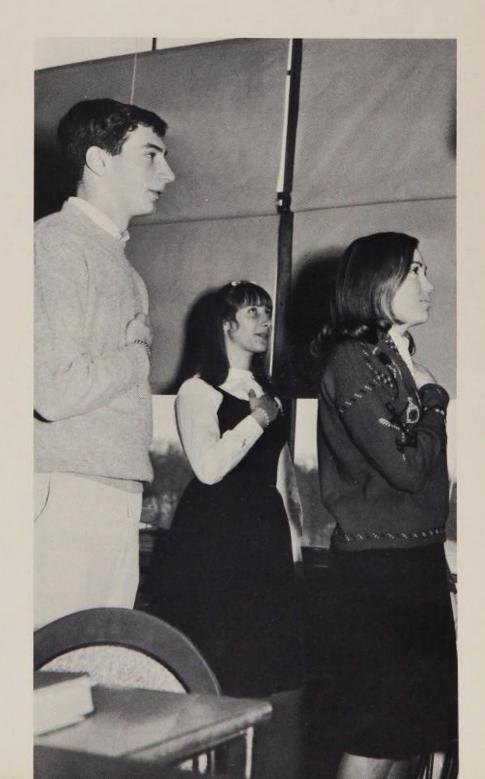

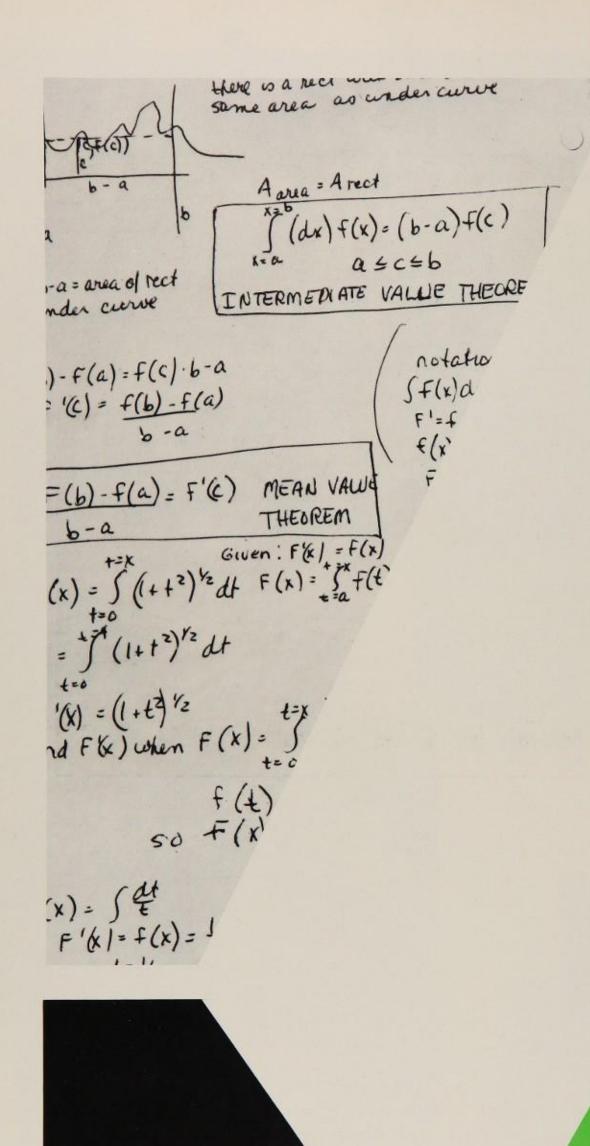

We have been given the marble block to shape and the tools to use. Our lives, our minds, and our hands were given to us in the beginning. The difference between the pudgy, almost useless hands of the infant and the firm, steady hands of the adult is the skill and knowledge of how to use them. We have been given this skill, too. Hands which are able to obey the trained mind's commands are hands which are able to shape our lives and our world.

ACADEMICS

Alone, a piece of machinery is useless. The same hands which create it are required at least in part to make it function smoothly. Similarly, we are taught in school most of what we know. Education or learning is the passing of knowledge from one generation to another. It might seem then, that one can learn from books alone. But even books once were men.

Board of Education: Mr. Antonio Carpiniello, Mr. Robert Fleder, Vice-President; Mr. Francis W. Carpenter, President; Mr. John Drew, Dr. Anthony Sisca.

As elected representatives of the town's taxpayers, these men seek to guide the policies of our schools. They hope to provide the students with the best educational facilities possible. As an interested and truly devoted group, the Board of Education has been doing a fine job towards making Harrison's schools some of the finest.

Mr. Louis M. Klein Superintendent of Schools

To The Class of 1965:

Unquestionably, one of man's highest accomplishments is his ability to control and command himself through self-discipline acquired through a constant practice of self-examination, concentration, and comparison. In other words, your true stature as an individual will not be determined, in my judgment, by your height, weight, wealth or position but by the fact that you have developed high standards of conduct, speech, and integrity, governing your own approach to the problems of life.

As you graduate, it is my hope that each of you will continue to strengthen yourself in the area of self-discipline.

Cordially,

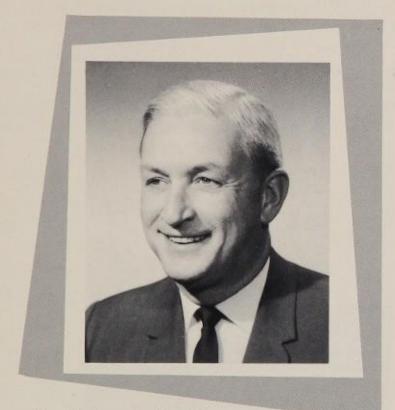

Louis M. Klein Superintendent

The administration leads faculty

Dr. Clayton A. Friis
Assistant Superintendent of Schools

As head administrators of the school district, Mr. Klein and Dr. Friis have a difficult job overseeing all of District #6's schools. They must see that the high quality of education is maintained everywhere, from kindergarten on up. To be a good administrator in such a position requires good judgment and quick thinking.

Mr. Nelson E. Smith Principal

Congratulations to the Class of 1965:

Your six years at Harrison Junior-Senior High School have been memorable ones. Wonderful academic achievement, wholesome social activities and victorious athletic endeavors have been your forte.

Now you must gather your high school experiences together and mold a life for yourselves. Much progress has been made in science, invention, new materials and marvelous machines; perhaps your roles will be to make a better world to live in and use these innovations. Much has to be accomplished in this area; civil-rights, poverty, delinquency and worthy home-membership will need your attention.

Good luck in the future; come back and see us.

Sincerely, Nelson E. Smith Principal

It is the difficult task of the principals to get everything in the school to function smoothly. As the school's top officials, they must handle everything from disciplinary problems to appropriations for the G.O. The well-being of students and faculty alike at Harrison High School is the best example of what a fine job these men are doing.

Mr. Kenneth Meyer Assistant Principal

For guidance...

Mr. Philip V. Castelli

"Stop smiling and tell me how to spell it," muses Mrs. De Macy.

Browsing with a purpose.

The guidance office is an important place for every high school student. It is the clearing house for all problems and the center for future planning. Our counselors work long and hard to provide the help which is indispensable to everyone.

In September the guidance department is flooded with a wave of schedule changes. This begins an arduous year of attempting to meet each student's interests and needs within the high school curriculum.

Mrs. Grace De Macy, Secretary

we turn to you

For many students the guidance counselors give advice on college plans. The dilemma of which colleges to apply to is always present, along with the problems of financing and admissions. Other students find help in planning a business or vocational program so that they may enter the working world after graduation.

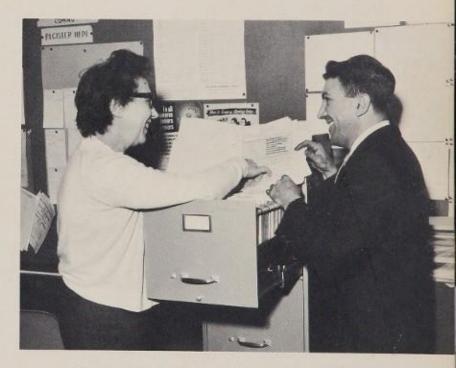

Above all, the guidance office is the place a student may bring any problem, large or small. Mrs. Higginbottom, Mr. Castelli and Mr. Berino are always more than ready to sympathize with our inevitable and perennial difficulties. They help, and we thank them.

Mrs. Grace Higginbottom

Mr. Joseph Berino

"See, I told you I'm right!" says Mrs. Higginbottom.

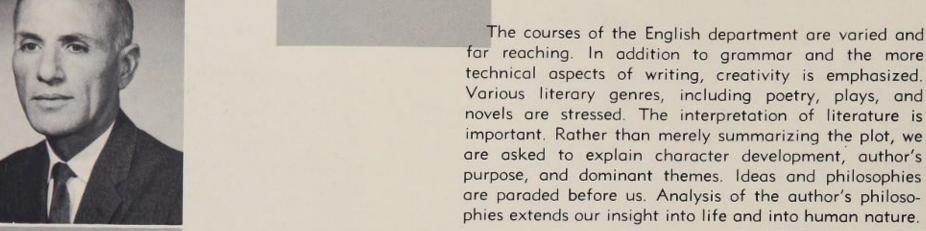

Mrs. Higginbottom came to Harrison in September from Worcester, Massachusetts. She is a graduate of Pembroke College and has her M.A. degree from the Graduate School in Brown University. She has done additional study at Clark University and Worcester State College.

Professionally, Mrs. Higginbottom started as a teacher of Biology and General Science in a Massachusetts public high school. Her interest in the problems involved in man's search for his self-identity led her later into the field of guidance and counseling. She has been a counselor in the Worcester school system at both the junior and senior high school levels.

To the graduating class she says, "I give you the finest wish I know: may you have the good fortune to experience in the schools you attend or the places where you work that same kind of consideration, cooperation and friendliness that you and Harrison High School have shown me this year. Every success to you in your future ventures!"

A challenge to creative thinking

Students admiring a Shakespearean mural.

Students are plagued with term papers. An epidemic of library-itis and writer's cramp harasses the students throughout the school year. Needless to say, it's well worth the effort.

Each year students meet the king of the iambic pentameter. Shakespeare has become an integral part of our English studies. Our English curriculum spans a time period from the ancient Greeks to plays and novels of our own generation. It is by studying the literature of different eras that we can better understand the past and the present, for the attitudes and feelings of the people are best reflected and represented by the literature of their time.

History is the study of people and their experiences throughout the ages. Because we learn by experience, the study of history enables us to rectify the mistakes of our predecessors. Waterloo was Napoleon's undoing and Stalingrad was Hitler's. By realizing and understanding that significant "why" of history, we can avoid the great blunders recorded in the annals of history.

For the inquisitive and the adventuresome, the science department at Harrison High offers a wide variety of science courses. Biology students peer at microorganisms through the microscope; future earth scientists explore the physiological phenomena of the earth and the universe; our memists are busy balancing equations and pouring chemicals; and our physicists to-be apply the theorem and principles of physics in the lab.

This year, Mr. Sherman has introduced a challenging new course, the history of science, which traces the development of scientific thought and discovery throughout the ages. Harrison High also offers an intensive chemistry seminar for advanced Placement students.

In a modern world of scientific and technological advancement, mathematics plays a significant role. Engineering, construction, architecture and space projects exact the precision and accuracy of mathematics to transform our dreams into reality.

Mathematics is rapidly modernizing to fulfill the needs of our changing society.

Harrison High is proud of its up to date facilities and enlarged math curriculum. This year, a math laboratory has been instituted in your school, in which the student grapples with difficult concepts at his own pace and ability.

Mr. Derivan offers us a rather perplexing modern math course which explores set theory, logic, Boolean algebra and analytic geometry. An advanced placement calculus course enables capable seniors to take "A.P." exams to secure higher placement in college.

Not only is mathematics a practical and applicable study, but it also serves as a mental stimulus. It requires rigid mental discipline to cope with the complex principles and abstract thinking. Indeed, it has reached the highest rung on the ladder of human thought.

The mastery of foreign language is not only a gratifying accomplishment, but also a vital factor in fostering world-wide understanding and cooperation.

Linguistics is a difficult and challenging study. Grammar, pronunciation and comprehension are merely some of the elements included in our courses. With new teaching and experimental techniques and a modern language laboratory, Harrison High excels in its facilities for developing each student's potential. Another asset to our language programs is the Advance Placement course offered to accelerated students.

To appreciate a foreign language, a student must acquire a keen insight into the civilization and culture of the respective country. Literature is perhaps the best reflection of the foreign customs and philosophies. Translations of Caesar, the study of Moliere's comedies or Cervantes' Don Quixote, highlight some of the topics discussed. The foreign student exchange program also proves to be on excellent opportunity to broaden our outlook on foreign countries.

School cannot be just studying; many students find relief from the daily grind, in music and in art.

For some, these activities at school are just for fun; for others the study of music and art may mean the beginning of a new career. All those who participate in the music and art departments at Harrison High find them enjoyable and rewarding.

At the Christmas assembly and at the spring concert we heard the fine performance of the concert band, the dance band, and the choral groups. Mr. Wayne Kellogg heads the choral groups, which include the high school chorus and double sextet and the newly formed select chorus, a welcome addition to the varied musical activities at H.H.S.

For the artistically inclined, there is mechanical drawing, basic and advanced art, and ceramics. Students' creative attempts are displayed throughout the school.

Exercise is to the body what reading is to the mind. Physical fitness is as vital to the development of a well rounded individual as scholastic achievement. Gymnastics, swimming, basketball, archery, and field hockey typify some of the various activities in our gym classes. In addition to promoting physical fitness, our gym classes enable us to develop our athletic skills, and foster team work and good sportsmanship . . . And after the bouncing and tumbling and splashing, we can appreciate the healthy equilibrium which vigorous physical activity establishes between the academic and the athletic.

Of equal importance is a fundamental knowledge of hygienic principles. Our health classes complement our gym classes to provide us with a thorough background to physical education.

Efficient people doing essential jobs

By far the most difficult job the office staff performs is the scheduling of classes, rooms and teachers. Beginning in June, they check the number of rooms, the number of desks, and the number of students in each class. Next comes the careful coordination of this information and the arrangement of classes for the least possible conflicts. The task is tedious, but the staff is dedicated and gets it done. Thus, a smooth functioning school is the result.

From fighting fires in the back of the school to going through the lockers during a bomb-scare, the Harrison High School custodians serve us well. No activity in the school takes place without their doing something for it, whether it be preparing and marking the fields for a game, moving bleachers for the commencement program, filtering and cleaning the pool, removing snow, or preparing the auditorium for an assembly. They are perpetually closing windows and changing lightbulbs, cleaning desks, floors, and blackboards. Of course their constant good humor, jokes, and assistance is opening stubborn lockers cannot be forgotten. For all this, and so much more, we thank the custodial staff.

ACTIVITIES

A flat piece of stone is dull. It is a good piece of sculpture that catches and reflects light and shadow in many different ways. So should an individual reflect many varied interests.

An individual develops by making decisions and pursuing interests of his own choice. Where a variety of activities is offered, a person can make his choice and pursue this selected interest. This gives him more depth and often more skill and knowledge, a most inportant part of a modern education.

Vibrant voices resound

The Chorus at the Christmas Assembly

Chorus

Several times a year, the Harrison High School Chorus exhibits the fruit of its long hours of toil and practice. The chorus is composed of students from grades 9-12, who under the direction of Mr. Wayne Kellogg, display their talents at the Christmas and spring concerts. Their selections are the greatest Broadway hits including "Gypsy" and "South Pacific". The chorus also sings spiritual hymns, patriotic songs and folk music. Most of all, they enjoy performing almost as much as everyone enjoys listening to them.

Zador, D. Carpino, P. Hirsch.

Select Chorus

The Select Chorus has a dual purpose. Besides adding quality and depth to the ranks of the regular chorus, it also performs its own numbers. These numbers range from Negro spirituals to classical psalms. Because of the group's special interest in modern music, the select chorus went on a trip to the hit Broadway show "Golden Boy." Newly initiated, it is well on its way to becoming an admired school activity.

Our Marching Band

The Harrison High School Marching Band thrilled audiences throughout the county with its intricate half-time routines during the fall of 1964.

Under the skillful direction of Mr. Pat Contardi, the 48 piece Husky Band developed a sharp, military style. The Band demonstrated tremendous spirit and unity as it worked on difficult drill patterns during the many long hours of practice.

The Band's sparkling performance before a standing room only crowd of 12,000 at the season's finale against arch-rival Rye climaxed one of its most successful years. As it marched through a special routine on the newly-dedicated Eugene J. Feeley Field, there was little doubt that the Husky Band was without an equal among tis counterparts in the SWIAC Conference.

The band itself is composed of 17 members chosen from the best musicians in the concert band, and is under the direction of Mr. Pat Contardi.

Through the long hours of rehearsals, the budding musicians of Harrison show their talent. The popularity of their concert is proof that these practices are worthwhile.

Variety and excellence are the key notes to the success of the band. Classical music combines with Latin and modern arrangements to round out the performances. Without the dedicated direction of Mr. Pat Contardi (the man in the solid gold Cadillac) the band would miss its greatness and its fun.

Their jobs—

Without the ever-willing and high-spirited cheer-leaders, much of the fun and excitement would be missing from most of our athletic events. The loyal cheers of the fans spurred on by the cheerleaders, offer great encouragement to the players and often bolstered their performances.

Moreover, these girls have participated in the Westchester County Competition and have brought much recognition to both the squad and the school.

The honor and pleasure of being a cheerleader more than compensates for the hoarse voices, tired muscles, and long practices.

This year Harrison High revived the Math Team. Although the members had no idea what sort of problems they would encounter, they eagerly looked forward to each coming meet. After the first two meets, the team members had progressed to such an extent that they were able to win at the third meet.

This spring tryouts were held for students who have completed Plane Geometry and Intermediate Algebra. Prospective members will be given several timed problems.

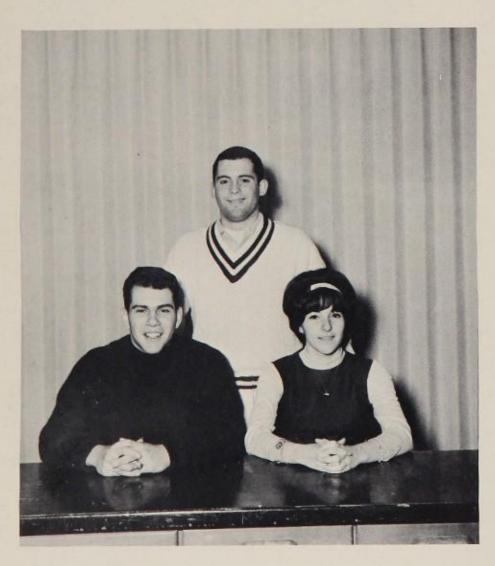

It is hoped that with the experience gained this year and selective choosing of members, the Math Team will become a useful addition to Harrison High School.

G.O.

At the hub of all our school activities is the G. O. Through bi-weekly meetings the members discuss problems and plans that are pertinent to the self-government of the school.

Under the direction of their faculty sponsor, Mr. George Briggs, the students and the faculty merge to provide the best for the school.

Encompassed in their planning are the G. O. dances including the annual Victory Dance, and the festive Winter Carnival Dance.

Two very important sub-sections of the G. O. are the Key Club and the Social Committee

Through the work of diligent, interested members, the G. O. prepares the students for future experience in the art of self-government.

Key Club

This year, the Harrison High School Key Club was formed to fill the need for a service club with high standards and competitive memberships. The major duties of this organization are outlined in its charter, which says that, The Key Club will provide sevice to the school wherever and whenever it is needed. The primary functions which evolved were the supervision of the halls both between periods and during lunch time. The Key Club has made an effective start and has a real future in this school.

S.O.S.

The S.O.S. (Student Organization for Safety), is a club that has been extremely active this year in promoting safety measures for the benefit of the entire school.

One of its primary accomplishments is the student supervision of the parking lot. All students who bring cars to school have been registered with the S.O.S. A certain number of parking stickers have been issued and the limited area of the parking lot is being used to its fullest advantage.

The establishment of the S.O.S. has laid the groundwork for future betterment of our school. Hopefully, the interest and activity of future S.O.S., will at least equal that of this year's membership.

Italian Club

The newly formed Italian Club is well on its way to becoming an integral part of Harrison High School's activities. The depth and enjoyment which the club adds to the study of the language entice many students to join its programs. The Christmas Party with its authentic decorations, food and tarantella (a native dance) could easily have been given in Italy. Several members also attended a reading of Italian poetry in New York with advisor, Signorina Lia Palumbo.

Spanish Club

Miss Antoinette Coloccia, the club's advisor, has planned programs which would allow any Spanish student of fourth years level or above to practice speaking the language on a social and conversational level.

These programs include an annual Christmas Party held in conjunction with the Italian Club, and the discovery of the customs and traditions of various Spanish speaking countries.

This year the club was very fortunate to have Miss Nubia Ramirez, (an International Fellowship Exchange Student) from Columbia, speak with them about her country.

One wonders who gains more enjoyment from a sport, the spectator or the participant. Each gets a kind of pleasure; one is a general appreciation and the other is a personal satisfaction.

There is little question that participation in sports makes a person more appreciative of a good performance. Participation in sports also helps to make an individual more complete. Not only does he gain skills which will always aid him, but he also learns to work with his teammates to achieve maximum success. This cooperation is a most important part of our modern world.

The reasons for gym are varied. The physical exercise is very important to making us healthy individuals. Learning to play games such as baseball and basketball may not be important to our future but it is an integral part of our school days. Swimming and tennis, which we also learn, are useful to us throughout our lives. Through this combination we become well-rounded individuals.

Leaders Club helps Miss Sipkins

Liz Kaye ponders a tough question on the Leaders Test.

A variety of tasks face the members of the Leaders Club each year. Some may be catalogued as both insignificant and time consuming, yet their efficient performance is necessary for a smoothly run gym program. During gym classes the members help Miss Sipkins by taking attendance, leading calisthenics, officiating various games and keeping the locker room clean.

The Club also sets up extracurricular activities which benefit both themselves and the other students. This year the leaders went ice skating and to a modern dance exhibition. The newly added co-ed volleyball tournament was a big success and is expected to be continued in the future.

Innovations

"You've almost got it," says Gloria Cambell to her partner Diane Madrazo.

This year Miss Sipkins has added Modern Dancing to our standard gym curriculum. The girls learned basic movements and simple exercises. They also experimented with isometric exercises. These strengthen our muscles by pushing against an immovable object. Other innovations this year were ping pong and jacks, combining the skills of trained champions and the joys of childhood.

The newest "Met", Margie Decea

Laurie Wachter and Carol Delitta vie for the rebound.

However Miss Sipkins did not let us abandon the basic sports. In the fall we played field hockey. Shin guards and flat sticks littered the locker room. The winter months are occupied with learning the skills of basketball and volleyball. Swimming, badminton, tumbling and trampolining add variety to the daily activities. In spring it's back outside for softball and archery.

And this variety makes what would otherwise be endless and monotonous periods of mere physical exertion enjoyable.

Sometimes we're lazy but

In their sports activities girls are sometimes lazy, (ed. note, maybe more than sometimes). They don't like to change into their gym suits because it is such a production to get back into their original outfits. After the process of changing is finally completed, the girls dawdle out to the playing field or the gym. Upon arrival, their attitudes change.

"Miss Sipkins, do we have to get dressed?"

The apethetic and diffident girls are turned into athletic tigers. (ed. note, the writer of this copy seems to have gotten a little carried away). Their zeal compensates for their occasional (ed. note, this is an understatement) lack of skill.

When the period ends, the girls return to the locker room to repair the damages done to their hair styles, make-up and fingernails by their moments (ed. note, this time the author was exact) of activity. Yet none of them would deny that they enjoyed it.

Set school scoring mark

On September 19, 1964, the Harrison Huskies started their fantastic season by anihilating the Yonkers Bulldogs 33-0 on the latter's field. No less than six players scored that day as the powerful Husky offense ran the Yonkers defense ragged.

The following week the Huskies journeyed to Horace Greeley and promptly trounced the Quakers by a score of 32-6. Ralph Friedgen and Joe Cotroneo sparked the offense by scoring two touchdowns apiece, but they were not the entire show. Frank Porto and John Selvaggio, as well as Richie Angarano ran extremely well. It was also the great catching of Tony Casarella and Tom Gerardi which insured this team victory.

Eastchester was the next victim to fall on their own soil. As the Huskies soared over the Eagles by a score of 40-6, Ralph Friedgen hit on twelve passes for a phenomenal 245 yards. Frank Calandruccio entered the offensive show by scoring two touchdowns, one on 14 yd. pass and the other being a 56 yd. pass with a run play showing some tremendous broken field running. The stout Husky defense, led by tackles Jim Meyer and Jim Heitefuss and guards Tony Gregorio and Bernardo Giannetti limited the Eagles to a mere 22 yds.

Playing on their home field for the first time, the Huskies crushed Scarsdale by a score of 33-0. Leading by only 6-0 at halftime, the Huskies charged out of the locker room and played to expectation. Husky defensive back, Richie Angarano, stole the show from the offensive by getting three key second half interceptions.

The next week the Huskies traveled to Tarrytown and defeated the Headless Horsemen by a score of 40-20. Frank Porto started the scoring early by galloping through a tremendous hole opened up by guard Steve Johnston and tackle Jim Heitefuss, and going all the way for a 70 yd. touchdown.

The following weekend the Huskies entertained the Pleasantville Panthers and won a squeaker by a score of 19-14. Harrison, for the first time all year, had to come from behind to win.

On October 31, 1964 the Huskies surprised no one but themselves when they clobbered the Pelham Pelicans on our home field by a score of 39-13, in a game which was billed as a close one. The offense sparked back to its old self and the defensive line and backfield excelled.

Following an open date, the Huskies faced Rye and won handsomely 27-0.

Herbie Aletti came on strong and plugged up the middle on the defensive line for the last 5 games. Bernie Giannetti started every game either at offense or defense. Tony Gregorio played tremendous guard, offesive and defensive, all year long. Steve Johnston could always be counted on to give his all at guard even when he was injured.

He gained 681 yards in 103 carries for a 6.6 average. Yogi Santa-Donato once again turned in a great job at center and linebacker. He even scored a touchdown when he picked off an Eastchester lateral and raced for a touchdown. Tony Casarella, a junior, must be one of the greatest ends Harrison has ever had. #### And conclude

The Harrison Huskies capped their 1964 football campaign with a 27-0 shutout of the Rye Garnets. The victory gave the Huskies a perfect record of eight wins and no losses and first place in the Southern Westchester Interscholastic Athletic Conference.

The game was even more lopsided than the score indicates. Harrison rolled up 353 yards in total offense while the Garnets were limited to only 75 yards rushing and passing.

The Husky scoring came in the second and fourth periods on touchdowns by Ralph Friedgen, Tony Casarella, and Joe Cotroneo, who scored twice. Cotroneo played a tremendous game, amassing 155 yards on 17 carries for a remarkable 9.1 yard average gain per carry.

perfect season

Friedgen, too, ran well, picking up 85 yards on 15 carries, but Ralph wisely called on Cotroneo to carry the ball in the second half of the game. Friedgen passed only nine times, completing three tosses for 70 yards.

The outstanding performance of the Harrison line was the key to the Husky victory. Anchored by Jim Heitefuss, Tony Casarella, and Yogi Santa-Donato, the line continously exerted a tremendous rush, frequently breaking up plays in the Garnet backfield. Consequently, Rye lost 57 yards attempting to pass. Heitefuss and Casarella were responsible for ten tackles apiece.

"Yogi" Santa-Donato zooms in for the tackle with Jim Heitefuss in hot pursuit.

Coach Lopuch had a tough break this year. The team won 3 and lost 4. Early in the season, Harrison lost to Eastchester by 1 point. Louie De-Francesco, manager of the team, said that if the game had been later in the season, Harrison would have easily beaten them. Some of the outstanding runners in this year's Cross-Country were Russ Harrison, Tom Guinen, and Rick Nowell. Other exceptional runners were Don Rothenstein, who broke the school record, Ron Pascale, Quentin Young, and Jim Nowell. Coach Lopuch predicts the best Cross-Country team ever for next year.

This year's Basketball team achieved a few firsts. For the first time in six years: we beat RYE in a basketball game, we qualified for the sectionals, we had a winning season. This can all be attributed to our new coach Mr. Robert Emrich, and the fine all around play of the nine members of the squad. The fine driving of Den Spedaliere, floorwork of Ralph Friedgen, defense of Tom Harrison, and clutch jump shooting of Bill Zilliox will surely be missed. The big man under the boards next year will most likely be Tom Gerardi who starred this year, but the man to watch is Fred Cifichiello, who got better as the season progressed.

This year's Baseball team has all the essentials for a SWIAC title. Ralph Friedgen, Larry Corell, Carmen Malifitano, and Dennis "Spoon" Spedaliere, if he can bounce back from an injury, form a solid pitching staff. The hitting can be supplied by Perry Verille, Ralph Friedgen, Yogi Santa-Donato, Dan Ratner, and Frank Calandruccio, all strong power hitters. Errors are usually numerous in school ball, but Coach Massi has been working hard to make the infield a crack defensive unit. Tony Tripodi looks like a human vacuum at third, and the D.P. combination of Rassullo, to Verille, to Santa-Donato, looks flawless. The catching will most likely be handled by Richie Tannen and Yogi Santa-Donato. The outfield of Frank Calandruccio, Dan Ratner, and Butch Pizzarello, presents power with defense.

The long distance men start on the daily two mile jog.

The various groups hastily arranged as underclassmen constitute a large part of the student body. Everchanging in position and number, it is difficult to describe or speak of a class as an individual unit with unique characteristics. Each class is influenced by its surroundings, the year, the prevailing attitudes, and the classes above and below it. Group pride or spirit is generated as the members come closer together after long acquaintances.

Only one characteristic ties all classes to each other; the search for the torch of knowledge. Never does a class graduate fearing that this torch will not be passed.

With much vibrance and sometimes too much noise, the Class of '67 became a part of Senior High this year. With over two hundred strong, a Harrison High School record, its members were found on the rosters of every important school endeavor.

We find therefore, that this group has not only been endowed with numbers, but also with fine spirit and quality, and has willingly given their hands in the molding of this school year.

The sophomore class contains a variety of students. There are those like Cathy Goldsmith, number one in her class, who after having missed four weeks of school returns and receives one hundred on her tests. Also, there is Pat Turso who just can't seem to zipper his jacket while appearing on E.T.V.

This is the year for cramming two thousand years of World history into ten months. This is the year the honors English class members realize that they aren't so smart after all. This is also the year foreign languages tend to become even more foreign.

Leading the class past the obstacles of this term is Andy Meyer, President. In his spare time Andy played a lead in this year's successful Footlight Player Production. Also starring in this undertaking were Sue Gruber and Jack Lindine. With Vice President Bruce Dix and Secretary Cathy D'Imperio, Andy organized a scattered group into a close knit class, working together.

"Them and their lousy stickers"

The newly initiated high school students learned that in order to have a yearbook, one must have money. And in order to have money one must work. And work they did!

This year's annual Halloween Dance was really spooky (as all Halloween Dances should be). The Blue Orchids provided the entertainment and everyone flew home on his broomstick satisfied. The Sophomore Bridge, organized by Liz Kay, proved to be very successful also. Everything from watches to wine was won in the auction held at this affair.

The Sophomore class is full of future Olympic winners. Vito LaRusso won Third Place in the state's rope climbing competition, while Roy Castelli and Roy Peer have shown great skill in gymnastics. The Jay-Vee football and basketball squads must be commended for the excellent spirit displayed throughout their season's competition. Moreover, Don Rothenstein, one of the stalwart members of the track team, has broken the school record in both Cross Country and the Two Mile Run.

No write-up about the class of '67 could be complete without mentioning the work of their adviser, Mr. Peter Lopuch. He added much life to the class and gave numerous ideas to the students.

This was a memorable year for the Sophomores. Most of them realized that graduation and college were not as far away as they had thought. They look forward to two more years of anxiety, hard work, studying and fun. Good luck to the class of '67. We upperclassmen envy you!

This year, as always, another group has come to the end of a long road. This road was far from straight; it had its sharp twists and gradual turns, its steep upgrades and slow depressions. Besides being long and difficult, it was the only road. Now, at the crossroads, the single road splits and becomes many, all of which lead into the tuture. Part of each may be seen from the present, and one may appear easier or smoother than another. However, each contains hidden ruts and sharp bends. Now, for the group at the end of the single road, a choice must be made.

A Junior Prom is a memorable event, yet it occurs only once and then it's over. It takes months of preparation and cooperation in order to be a success. It's a featured event of the year, and there are many others like it. These events are not part of the everyday repetition that accompanies school life. They are separate and often more exciting because each is a first and a last. Many, like the Prom, are traditional but each year also brings new ideas. It is this variety that spices school life.

A heartfelt tribute

Dr. Nellie M. Stephens,

Teacher, Shakespearean Actress,

Artist, Retires From

Profession After 40 1/2 Years

Dr. Nellie M. Stephens has retired from the teaching profession after 40½ years of experience. She earned her way through college by alternating rural school teaching and college attendance. As a result there were two years of teaching to her credit in one-room-schools at Sands Creek, and Afton before the completion of a college course. After graduation from Oneonta State College, Dr. Stephens furthered her education at Indiana and New York University where the degree of Bachelor of Science, Master of Arts, and Doctor of Philosophy were awarded. Her education never ceased. Additional instruction was acquired in the fields of flower growing, oil painting, speech arts, ceramics, acting, TV and radio technique, script writing, creative writing, instrumental and vocal music.

Upon graduation from Oneonta State, the college Placement Bureau recommended her for the position in the Harrison School System where she served for 38½ years. Her total teaching experience included all subjects of the curriculum on every level in the elementary field, and English, social studies, speech and dramatics on secondary level thus extending her teaching experience from Grade One through Grade Twelve.

In addition to her dramatic assignment at Harrison High School as coach of the school play, her ambition and versatility enabled her to take charge of stage sets, lighting, costumes, programs, publicity and all other phases of work connected with the performances. She also presented one-act plays and closed-circuit TV dramatizations at the school studio.

For several years her dramatic group performed at the Drama Festival in the County Center Auditorium at White Plains. In 1948-49, as the "H.H.S. Variety Show," a series of student programs were presented over the New Rochelle Radio Station.

Dr. Stephens has been responsible for the creation of several clubs at Harrison High School. The Footlight Players and the Stage Technicians were organized by her to assist with dramatic assignments. In connection with the teaching of English, the Rhythm Scribblers was created to specialize in the field of poetry. Over the years 215 members of this club were honored by having their poems accepted for publication in "Young America Sings" published by the National High School Poetry Association of Los Angeles, California. As class assignments special manuscripts of original essays were also submitted for publication. Eighty-two of these essays were accepted and published in "Young America Speaks." Her public speaking group which presented declamations for the American Legion also entered other contests. On two occasions they won first place honors in Westchester County while competing in the Journal American Oratorical Contest.

In 1961-1962 the Harrison High School's first literary magazine, "Mind and Quill," was organized and sponsored by Dr. Stephens.

The participation in many organizations was part of the broadening experience in Miss Stephens' career. She was a member of the Teachers' Association of Harrison, Westchester County, and New York State. She was also a member of the Parent Teachers' Association, the National Council of English Teachers, The Modern Poetry Association, The Shakespeare Fellowship of America, The Westchester Library Association, and in 1942-43 a member of the Advisory Board of the Fashion Arts Design School in New York City.

In addition to teaching, Dr. Stephens was a professional actress in and about the Metropolitan area with one season on Broadway. For two years she studied dramatics under Frank Lea Short of the American Academy of Dramatic Art.

Dr. Stephens as Nurse in Romeo and Juliet.

To a dedicated teacher

Eight years of acting in diversified roles were experienced as a member of the Shakespeare Fellowship of America, a repertory company. In regular castings with several performances weekly, she portrayed the Nurse in "Romeo and Juliet," Calpurnia in "Julius Caesar," Hippolyta in "A Midsummer Night's Dream," Audrey in "As You Like It," Maria in "Twelfth Night," and Katharina in "The Taming of the Shrew." Later with the Rye Players many castings in modern plays were assigned to her. For several years as a member of the Westchester Drama Association, she performed at the County Center Auditorium, and in radio plays on White Plains Station WFAS. Also, on the same radio station she was for nine years a storyteller in the weekly broadcast, "Bag O'Tales," sponsored by the Westchester Library Association. In April 1964 at Harrison High School, Miss Stephens performed in a student-teacher participation program to commemorate the 400th Shakespeare anniversary.

In the field of poetry, Dr. Stephens and her twin sister, Elizabeth Lotterer, wrote a book of poetry in 1959 entitled Rhythmic Ramblings. A second book of poetry is now being prepared by her. For the past eleven consecutive years, she has won national recognition in poetry by having poems accepted for publication in the National Poetry Anthology for Educators.

As an artist Miss Stephens has completed sixty-six oil paintings, some water colors, and many pieces of creative ceramics. Located in the Harrison High School cafeteria is one of her oil paintings dedicated to the memory of Harrison teachers who died while serving the school system.

The following tribute to Dr. Stephens appeared in the "Harrison Independent" at the time of her retirement.

"The District 6 Board of Education Tuesday paid tribute to Dr. Nellie Stephens, for  $38\frac{1}{2}$  years an English and dramatics teacher at Harrison High School, when her retirement was accepted with great regret.

"She was described by Superintendent of Schools Louis M. Klein as 'an extremely conscientious and dedicated person.' In all the years of service to Harrison's youth Dr. Stephens had only  $20\frac{1}{2}$  days of absence, Mr. Klein told the Board. In 26 years she was not absent a single day. He attributed this record to her 'remarkable health and remarkable dedication.'

'No clock ever measured her service. Her goal was devotion to youngsters.' He called Dr. Stephens 'faithful, loyal . . . and kind of teacher we need more of.' "

We at Harrison High School who have known Dr. Stephens either as students or fellow teachers agree most heartily with Mr. Klein's tribute to her. We also hope this brief account of her many fine accomplishments will serve as inspiration for all who read it.

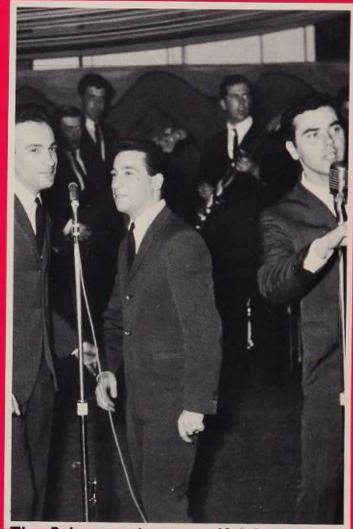

Several memorable productions at Harrison, directed by Dr. Stephens.

The Junior Prom: An event many will cherish in their memories

The Junior Prom was truly an evening to remember. The exciting music of the Belmonts rang throughout the gym, as couples danced the night away. The theme, Polynesian Promenade, was carried out in superb decorations and delicious food. The girls in long dresses and the boys in tuxedos seemed to transform the gym into a ballroom.

The highlight of the evening was the coronation of Queen Diane Carpino and her King Henry Cromeek. May 19, 1964 was surely a memorable and successful evening.

Seniors take Faculty positions for a day

Patty Perrotti
"Now which is it, water to acid or an acid to water?"

Following tradition, this year's Seniors had the opportunity to change places with their teachers for one day. After preparing six different lesson plans or repeating the same one for six different periods, the Seniors developed a sympathy for their teachers' previously mysterious activities.

This day gave all participants an insight into the teachers' point of view. Even if it didn't encourage everyone to become a teacher, it did broaden his outlook.

Editor's Note

With this page, the record of the school year 1964-65 comes to an end. And indeed, so does the record of the senior class.

This is an excellent time to evaluate the record. What does it say? Certainly foremost in the minds of most seniors is the representation of the glories of our class. This annual does, in fact, represent much of our three years at Harrison High. But the greatest emphasis, here, is not on the senior class, and rightly so. The yearbook must be accepted for what it is. It is a record of the school year. The school year lasts 10 months—not 3 years. Therefore, emphasis has been placed primarily upon the extra-curricular and educational programs of the school. Of course, seniors do appear in a large share of the book simply because they are the most prominent members of the student body.

The format of Reminiscence has been revamped considerably. The introductory section, for example, is a completely new part of the book. It helps to set the theme and, therefore, unify the book. The traditional faculty section has been renamed academics in keeping with shift in stress from the teachers to the subjects they teach. Other changes in structure as well as content were instituted as well.

It is hoped that these changes will serve as an example for future Reminiscence staffs. Tradition is a nice thing, but there is always the possibility that revision and modernization of the annual will lead to even better things. It is probable, as a matter of fact.

Working on Reminiscence 1965 has given me a great insight into the workings of student publications. We made our mistakes, and we learned from them.

Certainly, with all the staff working efficiently, the yearbook is a delight to work on. For, the end product of many, many hours of work is a permanent part of the memories of our high school days. It provides a great deal of satisfaction.

There is one tradition that merits continuation. Each year on this page, the editor gives thanks where he feels they are due. Mr. Joseph A. McKiernan has given Reminiscence 1965 countless hours of work. Serving as adviser, he has actually been one of the most productive workers as well. To him, I certainly owe a great deal.

In conclusion, perhaps "the hands that mold the school year" have molded us all and our futures. We owe this to our school, Harrison High.
